In one letter, a missionary named John Anderson wrote:

> "I am writing this letter in the midst of great danger. The Boxers are all around us, and we are expecting to be attacked at any moment. I do not know if this letter will ever reach you, but I want to let you know that I am prepared to die for my faith."

Another missionary, named Mary Slessor, wrote:

> "I am not afraid to die. I have been called to serve God in China, and I am willing to give my life for his sake."

The letters of the martyred missionaries are filled with expressions of faith, hope, and love. They show that these men and women were not afraid to die for their beliefs, and they were confident that they would be rewarded in heaven.
