On Hope

RFK was a firm believer in the power of hope. He said, "It is the belief that all things are possible, that we can change the world, and that we can make a difference in the lives of others."

"Some men see things as they are and say why. I dream things that never were and say why not."

RFK's words remind us that even in the darkest of times, we must never give up hope. Hope is what drives us forward, and it is what makes change possible.

On Justice

RFK was a lifelong champion of justice. He said, "Justice is not a gift, it is a right. It is something that we must fight for, and it is something that we must never give up on."

“ "The truth is rarely pure and never simple." ”

RFK's words remind us that justice is not always easy to achieve, but it is always worth fighting for. Justice is the foundation of a fair and equitable society, and it is something that we must never take for granted.

On Compassion

RFK was a man of great compassion. He said, "Compassion is not a sign of weakness, but a sign of strength. It is the ability to put ourselves in the shoes of others, and to feel their pain."

“ "Each time a man stands up for an ideal, or acts to improve the lot of others, or strikes out against injustice, he sends forth a tiny ripple of hope." ”

RFK's words remind us that compassion is essential for a truly humane society. Compassion is what makes us care about others, and it is what drives us to help those in need.
