

The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Everything You Need to Know

The Rocky Horror Picture Show is a 1975 British-American musical comedy horror film directed by Jim Sharman and starring Tim Curry, Susan Sarandon, Barry Bostwick, and Meat Loaf. The film is based on the 1973 stage musical of the same name by Richard O'Brien.

The film tells the story of Brad Majors and Janet Weiss, a young couple who are stranded in a storm and seek shelter in a strange castle. They are met by Dr. Frank-N-Furter, a transvestite scientist who is creating a perfect man named Rocky Horror. Brad and Janet soon become caught up in Frank-N-Furter's bizarre world, and they must learn to embrace their own sexuality and individuality.

The Rocky Horror Picture Show was a critical and commercial failure upon its initial release, but it has since become a cult classic. The film has been praised for its catchy songs, over-the-top performances, and campy humor. It has also been credited with helping to bring the LGBTQ+ community into the mainstream.

A shadow cast is a group of performers who act out the film live while it is being shown on screen. Shadow casts are often found at midnight screenings of The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

Shadow casts can vary in size and scope. Some shadow casts are small and informal, while others are large and professional. Some shadow casts even have their own costumes and props.

Shadow casts add an interactive element to the Rocky Horror Picture Show experience. Audience members can participate in the shadow cast by dressing up in costume, singing along to the songs, and shouting out callbacks.

Callbacks are lines or phrases that audience members shout out during midnight screenings of The Rocky Horror Picture Show. Some of the most popular callbacks include:

- "Asshole!"
- "Slut!"
- "I see you shiver with antici...pation!"
- "He's a sweet transvestite, from Transexual, Transylvania!"
- "Dammit, Janet!"

Callbacks can be shouted out at any time during the film, but there are certain points where they are more common. For example, the line "Asshole!" is often shouted out whenever Dr. Frank-N-Furter appears on screen.

There are a few things to keep in mind when attending a midnight screening of The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

- Dress up in costume. Many people dress up in costume when they go to see The Rocky Horror Picture Show. You can dress up as any character from the film, or you can create your own unique costume.
- Bring props. Props are an important part of the Rocky Horror Picture Show experience. Some of the most popular props include rice, toast, water guns, and glow sticks.
- Be prepared to participate. Audience members are encouraged to participate in the show by singing along to the songs, shouting out callbacks, and dancing in the aisles.
- Be respectful of others. The Rocky Horror Picture Show is a community event, and it's important to be respectful of other audience members. Don't talk during the show, and don't throw things at the screen.

Attending a midnight screening of The Rocky Horror Picture Show is a unique and unforgettable experience. If you've never been to a screening before, I encourage you to check it out. Just be prepared to have a lot of fun!
