

Time To Make The Donuts

Time to Make the Donuts by William Rosenberg

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 1280 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 227 pages
Lending : Enabled

Origin of the Phrase

The phrase "Time To Make The Donuts" originated in the late 1960s as an advertising slogan for Dunkin' Donuts, a popular coffee and donut chain. The first known use of the phrase was in a 1968 television commercial featuring Fred the Baker, a fictional character who represented Dunkin' Donuts. In the commercial, Fred the Baker is shown waking up early in the morning and saying, "Time to make the donuts!" This phrase quickly became synonymous with Dunkin' Donuts and has been used in various advertising campaigns and merchandise over the years.

Meaning of the Phrase

The phrase "Time To Make The Donuts" has a literal meaning, which is to start making donuts. However, it also has a figurative meaning, which is to get to work or start a task. The phrase is often used to encourage someone to start working or to remind them of a task that needs to be done. For example, a boss might say to an employee, "Time to make the donuts!" to encourage them to start working on a project.

Popular Culture

The phrase "Time To Make The Donuts" has become a part of American popular culture. It has been referenced in numerous television shows, movies, and songs. For example, the phrase is used in the title of a 2010 documentary about Dunkin' Donuts. The phrase has also been used in songs by artists such as Bruce Springsteen and Bob Dylan.

Merchandise

The phrase "Time To Make The Donuts" has been used on a variety of merchandise, including t-shirts, mugs, and keychains. This merchandise is popular among fans of Dunkin' Donuts and those who appreciate the phrase's humorous and motivational qualities.

Dunkin' Donuts

Dunkin' Donuts is an American multinational coffee and donut company. It is the largest coffee chain in the world, with over 11,000 locations in the United States and over 100 other countries. Dunkin' Donuts is known for its coffee, donuts, and other breakfast items. The company's signature drink is the Original Blend coffee, which is made with 100% Arabica beans. Dunkin' Donuts also offers a variety of donuts, including glazed, chocolate, and jelly-filled donuts.

The phrase "Time To Make The Donuts" is a iconic phrase that has been used by Dunkin' Donuts for over 50 years. The phrase has a literal meaning, which is to start making donuts, and a figurative meaning, which is to get to work or start a task. The phrase has become a part of American popular culture and has been referenced in numerous television shows, movies, and songs. The phrase has also been used on a variety of merchandise, including t-shirts, mugs, and keychains. Dunkin' Donuts is the largest coffee chain in the world, with over 11,000 locations in the United States and over 100 other countries. The company is known for its coffee, donuts, and other breakfast items.

Time to Make the Donuts by William Rosenberg

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 1280 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 227 pages
Lending	: Enabled

Killing A King: The Assassination Of Yitzhak Rabin And The Remaking Of Israel

The Assassination Of Yitzhak Rabin And The Remaking Of Israel ## **
An Event That Reshaped a Nation's Destiny  On an autumn evening in 1995, a single shot shattered...

Death in Benin: Where Science Meets Voodoo

In the West African nation of Benin, death is not simply the end of life. It is a complex and mysterious process that is believed to involve both the physical and spiritual...