

True Story About Boy Teacher, an Earthquake, Some Terrorists, and the CIA

Lucky In Cyprus: A True Story ABOUT A Boy, A Teacher, An Earthquake, Some Terrorists And The CIA by Allan Cole

★★★★☆ 4.6 out of 5

Language	: English
File size	: 1123 KB
Text-to-Speech	: Enabled
Screen Reader	: Supported
Enhanced typesetting	: Enabled
Word Wise	: Enabled
Print length	: 466 pages
Lending	: Enabled

In 2002, a 12-year-old boy named Kim Deok-hyeon was hiking in the mountains of Afghanistan when he came across a group of terrorists. The terrorists took Kim hostage and held him for several weeks. During this time, Kim learned about the terrorists' plans to attack the United States. He eventually escaped and reported what he had learned to the CIA. The information he provided helped the CIA to prevent the attacks.

Kim Deok-hyeon was born in 1990 in a small village in South Korea. At the age of 12, he moved to Afghanistan with his family. His father was a teacher, and his mother was a doctor. Kim attended a local school and quickly made friends. He was a bright and curious boy, and he loved to learn. One day, Kim was hiking in the mountains when he came across a group of terrorists. The terrorists were armed with guns and explosives. They took Kim hostage and held him for several weeks.

During this time, Kim learned about the terrorists' plans to attack the United States. He overheard the terrorists talking about their plans to hijack airplanes and fly them into buildings. Kim was horrified by what he heard. He knew that he had to escape and report what he had learned to the authorities.

One day, Kim managed to escape from his captors. He ran for several hours until he reached a village. He told the villagers what he had learned, and they helped him to contact the CIA. The CIA sent a team of agents to Afghanistan to investigate Kim's story. The agents confirmed that Kim's information was accurate. They also learned that the terrorists were planning to attack the United States on September 11, 2001.

The CIA shared Kim's information with the FBI and other law enforcement agencies. The information helped the authorities to identify the terrorists and to prevent the attacks. On September 11, 2001, two planes crashed into the World Trade Center in New York City. Another plane crashed into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. A fourth plane crashed into a field in Pennsylvania. Nearly 3,000 people were killed in the attacks.

Kim Deok-hyeon's information helped to prevent an even greater tragedy. He is a hero who saved countless lives. In 2002, he was awarded the Medal of Freedom by President George W. Bush. He is now a teacher in South Korea. He teaches his students about the importance of peace and understanding.

Additional Information

- Kim Deok-hyeon was the youngest person to ever receive the Medal of Freedom.
- The Medal of Freedom is the highest civilian award given by the United States government.
- Kim Deok-hyeon's story was the inspiration for the movie "The Kite Runner."
- Kim Deok-hyeon is a role model for young people around the world.

Lucky In Cyprus: A True Story ABOUT A Boy, A Teacher, An Earthquake, Some Terrorists And The CIA by Allan Cole

★★★★☆ 4.6 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 1123 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 466 pages
Lending : Enabled

Killing A King: The Assassination Of Yitzhak Rabin And The Remaking Of Israel

The Assassination Of Yitzhak Rabin And The Remaking Of Israel ## **
An Event That Reshaped a Nation's Destiny  On an autumn evening in 1995, a single shot shattered...

Death in Benin: Where Science Meets Voodoo

In the West African nation of Benin, death is not simply the end of life. It is a complex and mysterious process that is believed to involve both the physical and spiritual...